Who is Larry Moore?

Larry Moore anchors the award-winning 6 p.m. and 10 p.m. news in Kansas City. A native of Missouri and a graduate from the University Of Missouri School Of Journalism with a master's degree in television news, Larry holds the distinction of having anchored the news for more years than anyone in Kansas City.

Larry began working at KMBC as a reporter in 1968, and rose through the ranks to become primary news anchor in 1972. Before becoming a television news reporter, Larry was editor and reporter for two Missouri daily newspapers and United Press International. Larry's television news reporting and anchoring have been honored by the Missouri Broadcasters Association, the Kansas Broadcasters Association, the Missouri Radio and Television News Association and the Kansas City Press Club.

Larry devotes much of his volunteer community work to children. The national convention of the Dream Factory chose Larry to receive the coveted Stephen K. Douglas Award for his help in making dreams come true for chronically and seriously ill children in the Kansas City community. Since Larry helped organize the Greater Kansas City Dream Factory in 1984, more than 2,600 youngsters with chronic or serious illnesses have had their wishes granted in the Kansas City area.

Larry spends countless hours each year at fund-raising events helping the Dream Factory of Kansas City raise more than $400,000 annually so that no child ever has to be turned away because of lack of funds.

The Larry Moore Scholarship was established in 2000.
